Marking guidelines:
Practice test in sworn translation

Practice tests in sworn translation and exams in sworn translation are assessed based on major and minor errors. The major and minor errors used for assessing exams and practice tests in sworn translation are defined as follows:

- Major errors:
  - Gross mistranslation, in which the meaning of the word/phrase in the original text is lost altogether
  - Omission of vital words or other information
  - Insertion of information not contained in the original (except in the case of translator's notes)
  - Inclusion of alternate translations, where the translator should have made a choice
  - Any important failure in target-language grammar
  - Misspelling of names of persons or places or reference numbers
  - Miscopying of a date
  - Failure to certify at all, as without certification the document is useless.
- Minor errors:
  - Mistranslation that distorts somewhat, but does not wholly falsify, the intent of the original
  - Omission of words that contribute only slightly to meaning
  - Presentation of alternate translations where the terms offered are synonymous or nearly so
  - 'Inelegance' in target language grammar
  - Typographical errors
  - Failure to certify every page

In the practice test in sworn translation, the following will constitute a fail:

- Two or more major errors or
- One major error plus three minor errors
  or
- Four or more minor errors

Candidates are penalised only once for major errors of a technical nature, such as failure to certify.
