Dear Tarcio

Thank you for your reply.

To be allowed to apply for the accreditation in sworn translator, SATI requires the following:

- You should be a paid-up SATI member for at least 3 months.

AND

- You should have a higher education qualification in languages or linguistics, plus at least 3 years' experience as a translator, as well as a sound knowledge of legal documents and legal terms.
- If you do not have the above-mentioned higher education qualification, we require at least 5 years' experience as a translator, as well as a sound knowledge of legal documents and legal terms.

- You should acquire a copy of the SATI manual on sworn translation and study the manual to bring you up to date with the various requisites for sworn translation.

It will be compulsory for you to first write the practice test in sworn translation before you will be allowed to write accreditation examination for sworn translation. This is to make sure that you know exactly what the sworn examination entails as well as the standard of translation required.

- The practice test for sworn translation consists of only one text, while the actual accreditations examination in sworn examination consists of four texts.
- It is extremely important that an applicant for this specific examination takes note of the fact that when a candidate passes the SATI accreditation examination in sworn translation, that candidate is not yet a sworn translator.
- Our accreditation certificate in sworn translation is merely one of the stepping stones to become a sworn translator. With this SATI accreditation certificate, the candidate must still approach a South African High Court and file a motion to be officially sworn in as a translator by a judge in the South African High court.
- All this detailed information is contained and fully explained in the Manual for sworn translators.

Please find the following as attachments:

- An information document
- A Power Point presentation showing the SATI process
- An application form for the practice test
- The Manual for Sworn Translators

The various costs are:

- Practice test – R480
- Accreditation examination – R1160

If you need any more information, please feel free to contact me.

Best regards

Erica

I need to specifically become a sworn translator.

I intended on being sworn in, at the Western Cape High Court.

Kind regards.

To: Tarcio Silvestre <olisbel@gmail.com>

Dear Tarcio

Thank you for your email.

Some things have changed since you last communicated with Erica. She has now retired and I have taken over as accreditation officer.

We have made some minor changes to the information documents, the application form and the sworn translation manual.

The main challenge is that currently we're not offering accreditation in English>Portuguese sworn translation. Did you only want to be accredited in that direction, or also Portuguese>English?

Although we often get enquiries from people who want to become sworn between Eng<>Portuguese, none of them have been SATI members (or they do it privately) so there hasn't been the need to develop an exam for a number of years. However, given that you are a member and would like to do this, I will begin the process now. It could take some time though.

In the meantime, I attach the updated application form for 2026 (which shows the current fee for the test and the exam) and the other relevant documents. Please remember that you will have to do the practice test before applying for the exam. Apologies for the duplication, but I'll need you to fill in the new form, please.

Once I have that, I'll be able to send you an invoice for the practice test. We can start with Portuguese>English if you wanted to do that combination. If not, I will be in touch once we can do English>Portuguese.

Bev

Greetings Bev, I trust you are well.

Thank you for the feedback.

I saw you attached 3 information documents but none of them are the application form.

I can certainly start with Portuguese>English and I would appreciate it if you could indeed advise me when the opposite combination becomes available.

Kind regards
Tarcio
